S&P 500 vs: Demand Power & Supply Pressure
Pressure July 2008 to October 2008

Status of Demand Power/Supply Pressure Key Trend-finder Indicator

Index	Term	* Signal	First Date of Signal	Current Demand Pr.	Current Supply Pr.	Fullest Extent of Index Move Since Signal
S&P 500/DJIA	Short	Enter Short	9/4/2008	442	520	SPX Fell 393 Points (31.9 %)
NDX	Short	Enter Short	8/25/2008	424	480	NDX Fell 743 Points (39.3 %)

* We consider a new entry point for a signal the day when one measure crosses more than 10 points above the other. We like to exit when (or before if conservative) the two measures return to an intersection.

Short-term, both the Bullish and Bearish scenarios remain alive Thursday, both implying a huge move around the corner, but in opposite directions, of course. Both are charted later in this report. We continue to give each a 50 percent probability. Just one of those times where uncertainty reigns. The coming ideological directive next Tuesday is likely the reason for this indecisive technical set-up. This weekend we will show how markets have typically behaved after ideologically different presidential election results. A rise above 9,750 suggests the Bullish, Minor degree wave b-up rally started Tuesday. The Bearish scenario considers a sideways triangle is in formation, wave 4, and it may not be complete yet. One clue the Bearish scenario is occurring is if prices drop to the 8,400 to 8,500 area, probably Friday or Monday, then bounce. That would suggest wave {c} up completed Wednesday, and wave {d} down would take prices to the 8,450ish level. Then a small wave {e} would take prices up to the 8,800 to 9,000 area, then plunge. That plunge would likely occur right after the election. It is a pretty good bet the short-term direction of the market will not be revealed until next week.

The percent above 5 day indicator suggests that stocks could decline soon. There is no definitive price guidance from the 30 minute and 15 minute full stochastics for Friday.

The Daily MACD and Full Stochastics have generated new buy signals in the Industrials, and the Weekly Full Stochastics have also generated a new buy signal. This argues for the short-term Bullish scenario.

The most significant news we can give you tonight is the Plunge Protection Team Indicator generated a new "buy" signal Thursday.

What we can say, is that about a month from now, stocks should be in a huge Bear Market rally, phase two of a three phase Bear Market, affording an opportunity to raise cash before all damnation breaks loose later in 2009, when phase three strikes fear into the hearts and minds of men.

The Dow Industrials rose 189.73 points, closing at 9,180.69 Thursday, October 30th. NYSE volume fell to 98 percent of its 10 day average. Upside volume was 84 percent, with advancing issues at 81 percent, with upside points at 86 percent. S&P 500 Demand Power rose 11 points to 442, while Supply Pressure fell 15 points to 520, telling us buying interest was strong, but a lack of interest in selling helped drive prices higher.

To repeat what we said, in last weekend's newsletter, our view of the big picture after this developing decline to a bottom for wave a-down, "if there is a bottom here, it is certainly a technical bounce we get. The present economic fiasco does not deserve a bottom here. The bailout plan is an utter socialist disaster. A major recession, possibly depression, is just starting, and nobody has a clue what to do. Confidence in markets and governments is gone, the PPT is proving ineffective, jobs are disintegrating, foreclosures wiping out entire neighborhoods like some sort of plague, runs on banks 1930's style, mortgage backed securities so complicated nobody can identify who owes what to whom, lines of credit evaporated, cries for Federal Reserve guarantees of pretty much everything contracted to offset all counterparty risk in the universe, trembling lipped, flush-faced newly anointed King Henry, the Treasury Secretary, letting it slip he won't be staying on the job much longer, "nationalization" the most popular word in the English vocabulary, and a political campaign with divisiveness rhetoric last seen in pre-Civil War times.

"Here is what is going on big picture: We just got a reconfirmation of the Dow Theory Primary Bear Market sell signal, and just got a new sell signal in our Primary Trend Indicator. These are two long-term fresh sell signals, suggesting that this Bear Market is nowhere near over. It means the coming bounce will be corrective. Putting this all together, it means the decline from the October 2007 highs is just wave a-down of an a-down, b-up, c-down Bear Market. Friday's closing low came precisely on the one-year anniversary of the all-time high in October 2007, and precisely the same day, six years later, from the October 2002 Bear Market bottom. This is amazing. It has a poetry to it. Whether the final bottom comes Friday, October 10th, or next Friday, or some other day soon, this will only be the bottom of the first leg down of a three-phase Bear Market.

"The next leg, wave b-up, could/should last about 2 to 4 months, and we anticipate a ton of volatility. We have a bunch of phi mate turns coming over the next 2 to 4 months, the next one after October 13th scheduled for October 23rd +/- . Wave b-up could be an a-up, b-down, c-up affair, or a five wave a-b-c-d-e triangle, with violent swings, each wave shorter than its precedent wave.

"Once wave b-up completes, sometime in early 2009 most likely, wave c-down will follow, which should prove cataclysmic, and based upon how low wave a-down got Friday, will likely hit new lows far below the 2002 lows. It will feel like it is ushering in Armageddon. Conservative investors must raise cash at the coming technical bounce, wave b-up. If wave b-up retraces 38.2 percent of the decline from October 2007, it could rise to 10,295. If that is the case, it argues for a triangle pattern, essentially sideways pattern for wave b-up, as its price target would get hit before a reasonable proportional time period has passed. If the rebound is 50 percent, we are talking an upside target of 11,040. A 61.8 percent retrace would target 11,785.

"Wave c-down could result in a new form of government, something quite different than the Founding Fathers established. There could be an international crisis that feeds it, perhaps a new war, assassinations, or something horrendous and violent. It is here that owning gold coins will be important.

The Demand Power/Supply Pressure indicators generated an enter short position signal September 4th, and remains there Thursday. Thursday's McClellan Oscillator improved to positive + 161.95. The Summation Index improved to negative -3,927.20. NYSE New Highs was flat at 5, with New Lows falling to 59 Thursday.

The percent of DJIA stocks above their 30 day moving average rose to 33.33 from 10.00. The percent above 10 day rose to 83.33 from 60.00. The percent above 5 day rose to 93.33 from 90.00. The NYSE 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator rose to negative -92.7, remaining on a "sell" signal from September 11th, when it fell below negative - 120.0 threshold necessary for a new "sell."

Our three Blue Chip key trend-finder indicators (other than the Demand Power/Supply Pressure Indicator) remain on a "buy" signal Thursday. The DJIA 30 day Stochastic Fast rose to 33.33, above the Slow at 10.00, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The DJIA 14 day Stochastic rose to 83.33, above the Slow at 60.00, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The Fast had to cross more than 10 points below the Slow for a new "sell." The S&P 500 Purchasing Power Indicator rose 7 points to negative -88.27, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th.

The Plunge Protection Team Risk Indicator rose to negative -20.75 Thursday, triggering a new "buy" signal. A drop below negative -16.0 triggers a new "buy" signal. After it generated a buy signal on July 31st, the Industrials rose 489 points. When the reading rises above positive + 20.00, or falls below negative -16.00, we usually see multi-week rallies. On the other hand, declines can (don't have to) occur when this reading falls within the range of negative -16.00 to positive + 20.00. The PPT Indicator was in the range where declines typically occur, between negative -16.00 and positive + 20.00 for most of the late December/January decline, which saw the DJIA drop over 1,100 points. It then rose above + 20.00 January 14th. Rallies usually start about a week or two after this measure exceeds positive +20.00. When this indicator last went below negative -16.00, triggering a new "buy" signal, on February 7th, 2008, the Industrials closed at 12,247. After that the Industrials rose 509 points. After they rose above negative -16.00 on March 3rd, the DJIA dropped over 500 points. From May to July 2008 we saw a significant decline within this range, 1,650 points. After this indicator generated a sell signal October 1st, the Industrials declined 2,948 points.

The DJIA Call/Put Ratio rose to 0.99 Thursday, on a "neutral" signal from May 27th (moving below 1.00 and above 1.40 is neutral, while rising decisively above 1.00 (above 1.10) triggers a new "buy"). On Thursday, the Secondary Trend Indicator rose 6 points to negative -17, on a sell signal. Above zero is Bullish. Below zero is Bearish. The closer it moves toward zero, the greater the risk of a coming trend turn, thus caution with open positions would be recommended. After it turned Bearish on December 31st, 2007, the Industrials fell 1,630 Points, or 12.3 percent. After it generated a sell, on June 17th, the Industrials fell 1,200 points. After it triggered a sell signal on October 2nd, the Industrials fell 2,600 points. This indicator correlates well with price trends.

On October 10th, the Industrials blew past the downside target of 9,750 we had been warning for months would be reached, per a Head & Shoulders top in the Dow Industrials. There is a smaller H&S top that has completed with a downside target of 7,500ish, which we also came close to hitting Friday, October 10th. That level could be tossed aside over the next few weeks if the triangle scenario is occurring.

SUMMARY PAST WEEK'S DEMAND POWER/SUPPLY PRESSURE STATISTICS

10 Day Average Short-term Advance/Decline Signals

Index	Oct 30th A/D Indicator	Signal	Date of Signal	Fullest Extent of Index Move Since Signal
NYSE/S&P 500	- 92.7	Sell	Sept 11th, 2008	SPX Fell 409 Points (32.8 %)
NASDAQ 100	- 9.8	Sell	Aug 20th, 2008	NDX Fell 766 Points (40.00 %)
Russell 2000	- 288.3	Sell	Aug 25th, 2008	RUT Fell 272 Points (37.8 %)

Shorting should only be done with funds that are speculative and the investor is willing to accept a substantial loss on. That is because the PPT is very active at this time.

Have you noticed that the NDX crashed 40.0 percent since our NDX 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator generated a sell signal August 20th, 2008, less than two months ago.

Gold's Daily Full Stochastic generated a new buy signal Tuesday. The HUI Amex Gold Bugs Index Daily and Weekly Full Stochastics just generated new buy signals.

The NASDAQ 100 rose 31.82 points Thursday, closing at 1,333.94. Volume were flat at 99 percent of its 10 day average. Upside volume led at 70 percent, Thursday. Advancing issues led at 81 percent, with upside points at 85 percent. NDX Demand Power rose 6 points to 424, with Supply Pressure down 7 points at 480, telling us the rally came more from a lack of selling interest than a strong urge to buy.

Our key trend-finder indicators remain on a "buy" signal Thursday. The NDX 14 day Stochastic Fast rose to 60.00, above the Slow at 35.20, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 13th. The NDX Purchasing Power Indicator rose 7 points to negative -53.11, remain on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The NDX 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator fell to negative - 9.8, remaining on a "sell" signal from August 20th, when it fell below the negative -5.0 threshold for a new "sell" signal. The Demand Power/Supply Pressure Indicator generated an enter short positions signal Monday August 25th, when the SP indicator rose more than 10 points above the DP indicator, and remains there Thursday, October 30th.

The Russell 2000 rose 23.30 points Thursday, closing at 514.18. Volume was lower at 94 percent of its 10 day average, with upside volume leading at 83 percent, with advancing issues leading at 88 percent. The RUT Purchasing Power Indicator rose to positive + 9.01, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The RUT 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator fell to negative -288.3, remaining on a "sell" signal from August 25th, needing to rise above the positive +180.00 threshold for a new "buy" signal.

The HUI Amex Gold Bugs Index rose 7.58 points Thursday, closing at 202.67. Volume fell to 94 percent of its 10 day average. Upside volume was 90 percent, with advancing issues at 70 percent, and upside points at 94 percent. Our key trend-finder indicators remain on a "sideways" signal Thursday, October 30th. The HUI 30 day Stochastic Fast remained at 0.00, equal to the Slow, remaining on a "sell" signal from October 2nd. The Fast has to rise more than 20 points above the Slow to trigger a new "buy." The HUI Purchasing Power Indicator rose to 183.73, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 29th. December Gold fell to 739.3. Silver fell to 9.75, while Oil fell to 65.28. The Dollar rose 0.15 to 84.78. Bonds fell a point to 114^10. The PPT has to buy the long end to keep Bonds headed in the right direction, to support the housing market, especially now that AMBAC and MBIA are no longer rated AAA, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac — who hold half of all mortgages - have collapsed, and credit markets have frozen, requiring lower interest rates, and Master Planner interest rate (bond) intervention. The VIX fell to 62.67, as volatility and fear remain.

The Australia SPASX200 rose 155.50 points, or 4.04 percent Thursday. Click on the Weekend Australia Report, which includes EW charts of the FTSE and DAX, for the latest analysis.

Bottom Line: The Fed has to continue hyperinflating to bail out this sick economy, feeding a major trend up in precious metals. Households, not just Wall Street, must be bailed out. If this doesn't happen we are headed for an economic depression.
