S&P 500 vs: Demand Power & Supply Pressure

Pressure July 2008 to October 2008

Status of Demand Power/Supply Pressure Key Trend-finder Indicator

Index	Term	* Signal	First Date of Signal	Current Demand Pr.	Current Supply Pr.	Fullest Extent of Index Move Since Signal
S&P 500/DJIA	Short	Enter Short	9/4/2008	462	482	SPX Fell 393 Points (31.9 %)
NDX	Short	Enter Short	8/25/2008	433	461	NDX Fell 743 Points (39.3 %)

* We consider a new entry point for a signal the day when one measure crosses more than 10 points above the other. We like to exit when (or before if conservative) the two measures return to an intersection.

Stocks had the large price move Tuesday, that the small change in Monday's McClellan Oscillator suggested was coming. The move was up, which doesn't surprise us as we wrote in last night's newsletter, "If you want to press us to the wall, we would not be surprised by a rally of 3 to 5 percent over the next week or two." Tuesday's rally was 3.27 percent. Our studies of post presidential elections shows the odds are high that we will see at least another 5 percent rise above Tuesday night's 9,625.28 close some time over the next four months. And the next president of the United States will be Barrack Obama, as predicted by the stock market, per our weekend analysis of presidential elections and the stock market. Man, does he have his work cut out for him. This is an historic moment, a Jackie Robinson moment, for we are witnessing a revolution of ideas in America. May God bless America. Let's hope those new ideas will be the right ones.

It is interesting that the S&P 500 is traveling in precise correlation with Demand Power, as shown on the chart on page one of this report. The dark blue line (S&P 500) has moved tick for tick with the Dodger Blue line (Demand Power) since October 10th, going on three weeks now. This is happening because supply pressure has nosedived since then. Declines require strong supply.

*We still face an uncertain technical pattern over the short-run. The problem is the patterns evident at this time can complete with prices exploding higher from here or plunging lower. None of us like when technical analysis is vague, but it happens on occasion. If prices explode higher, it means wave b-up has started, the middle phase of a three phase Bear Market. If so, that allows for a stairstep rally over the next 3 to 4 months. Then a sharp wave c-down will follow. The other possibility is that we will soon see prices top, and a sharp decline into the bottom of wave a-down is next. That would represent the end of the first phase of the Bear market, and the start of a multi-month rally, wave b-up, the eye of the hurricane so to speak. Either way, this suggests that President Obama should experience a short honeymoon, followed by a devastating catastrophic market collapse, the final wave c-down for this Bear market, starting in 2009. Short-term, *the 30 Minute and 15 Minute Full Stochastics suggest stocks could fall Wednesday.

The Dow Industrials catapulted 305.45 points, closing at 9,625.28 Tuesday, November 4th. NYSE volume was higher at 89 percent of its 10 day average. Upside volume was 88 percent, with advancing issues at 78 percent, with upside points at 97 percent. S&P 500 Demand Power rose 14 points to 462, while Supply Pressure fell 14 points to 482, telling us demand power was powerful and the rally was solid.

To repeat what we said, in last weekend's newsletter, our view of the big picture after this developing decline to a bottom for wave a-down, "if there is a bottom here, it is certainly a technical bounce we get. The present economic fiasco does not deserve a bottom here. The bailout plan is an utter socialist disaster. A major recession, possibly depression, is just starting, and nobody has a clue what to do. Confidence in markets and governments is gone, the PPT is proving ineffective, jobs are disintegrating, foreclosures wiping out entire neighborhoods like some sort of plague, runs on banks 1930's style, mortgage backed securities so complicated nobody can identify who owes what to whom, lines of credit evaporated, cries for Federal Reserve guarantees of pretty much everything contracted to offset all counterparty risk in the universe, trembling lipped, flush-faced newly anointed King Henry, the Treasury Secretary, letting it slip he won't be staying on the job much longer, "nationalization" the most popular word in the English vocabulary, and a political campaign with divisiveness rhetoric last seen in pre-Civil War times.

"Here is what is going on big picture: We just got a reconfirmation of the Dow Theory Primary Bear Market sell signal, and just got a new sell signal in our Primary Trend Indicator. These are two long-term fresh sell signals, suggesting that this Bear Market is nowhere near over. It means the coming bounce will be corrective. Putting this all together, it means the decline from the October 2007 highs is just wave a-down of an a-down, b-up, c-down Bear Market. Friday's closing low came precisely on the one-year anniversary of the all-time high in October 2007, and precisely the same day, six years later, from the October 2002 Bear Market bottom. This is amazing. It has a poetry to it. Whether the final bottom comes Friday, October 10th, or next Friday, or some other day soon, this will only be the bottom of the first leg down of a three-phase Bear Market.

"The next leg, wave b-up, could/should last about 2 to 4 months, and we anticipate a ton of volatility. We have a bunch of phi mate turns coming over the next 2 to 4 months, the next one after October 13th scheduled for October 23rd +/- . Wave b-up could be an a-up, b-down, c-up affair, or a five wave a-b-c-d-e triangle, with violent swings, each wave shorter than its precedent wave.

"Once wave b-up completes, sometime in early 2009 most likely, wave c-down will follow, which should prove cataclysmic, and based upon how low wave a-down got Friday, will likely hit new lows far below the 2002 lows. It will feel like it is ushering in Armageddon. Conservative investors must raise cash at the coming technical bounce, wave b-up. If wave b-up retraces 38.2 percent of the decline from October 2007, it could rise to 10,295. If that is the case, it argues for a triangle pattern, essentially sideways pattern for wave b-up, as its price target would get hit before a reasonable proportional time period has passed. If the rebound is 50 percent, we are talking an upside target of 11,040. A 61.8 percent retrace would target 11,785.

"Wave c-down could result in a new form of government, something quite different than the Founding Fathers established. There could be an international crisis that feeds it, perhaps a new war, assassinations, or something horrendous and violent. It is here that owning gold coins will be important.

The Demand Power/Supply Pressure indicators generated an enter short position signal September 4th, and remains there Tuesday. Tuesday's McClellan Oscillator improved to positive + 320.30, an extreme overbought level. The Summation Index improved to negative -3,129.91. NYSE New Highs was flat at 5, with New Lows flat at 23 Tuesday.

The percent of DJIA stocks above their 30 day moving average rose to 50.00 from 36.67. The percent above 10 day rose to 96.67 from 93.33. The percent above 5 day rose to 96.67 from 73.33. The NYSE 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator improved to positive + 146.3, triggering a new "buy" signal November 4th, rising above the positive + 120.00 threshold necessary for a new "buy."

*Our three Blue Chip key trend-finder indicators (other than the Demand Power/Supply Pressure Indicator) remain on a "buy" signal Tuesday. The DJIA 30 day Stochastic Fast rose to 50.00, above the Slow at 34.67, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The DJIA 14 day Stochastic rose to 93.33, above the Slow at 73.89, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The Fast had to cross more than 10 points below the Slow for a new "sell." The S&P 500 Purchasing Power Indicator rose 9 points to negative -75.85, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th.

*The Plunge Protection Team Risk Indicator was flat at negative -20.96 Tuesday, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 30th. A drop below negative -16.0 triggered a new "buy" signal. After it generated a buy signal on July 31st, the Industrials rose 489 points. When the reading rises above positive + 20.00, or falls below negative -16.00, we usually see multi-week rallies. On the other hand, declines can (don't have to) occur when this reading falls within the range of negative -16.00 to positive + 20.00. The PPT Indicator was in the range where declines typically occur, between negative -16.00 and positive + 20.00 for most of the late December/January decline, which saw the DJIA drop over 1,100 points. It then rose above + 20.00 January 14th. Rallies usually start about a week or two after this measure exceeds positive +20.00. When this indicator last went below negative -16.00, triggering a new "buy" signal, on February 7th, 2008, the Industrials closed at 12,247. After that the Industrials rose 509 points. After they rose above negative -16.00 on March 3rd, the DJIA dropped over 500 points. From May to July 2008 we saw a significant decline within this range, 1,650 points. After this indicator generated a sell signal October 1st, the Industrials declined 2,948 points.

The DJIA Call/Put Ratio fell to 0.96 Tuesday, on a "neutral" signal from May 27th (moving below 1.00 and above 1.40 is neutral, while rising decisively above 1.00 (above 1.10) triggers a new "buy"). On Tuesday, the Secondary Trend Indicator rose 7 points to negative -1, on a red signal. Above zero is Bullish. Below zero is Bearish. The closer it moves toward zero, the greater the risk of a coming trend turn, thus caution with open positions would be recommended. After it turned Bearish on December 31st, 2007, the Industrials fell 1,630 Points, or 12.3 percent. After it generated a sell, on June 17th, the Industrials fell 1,200 points. After it triggered a sell signal on October 2nd, the Industrials fell 2,600 points. This indicator correlates well with price trends.

On October 10th, the Industrials blew past the downside target of 9,750 we had been warning for months would be reached, per a Head & Shoulders top in the Dow Industrials. There is a smaller H&S top that has completed with a downside target of 7,500ish, which we also came close to hitting Friday, October 10th. That level could be tossed aside over the next few weeks if the triangle scenario is occurring.

Shorting should only be done with funds that are speculative and the investor is willing to accept a substantial loss on. That is because the PPT is very active at this time.

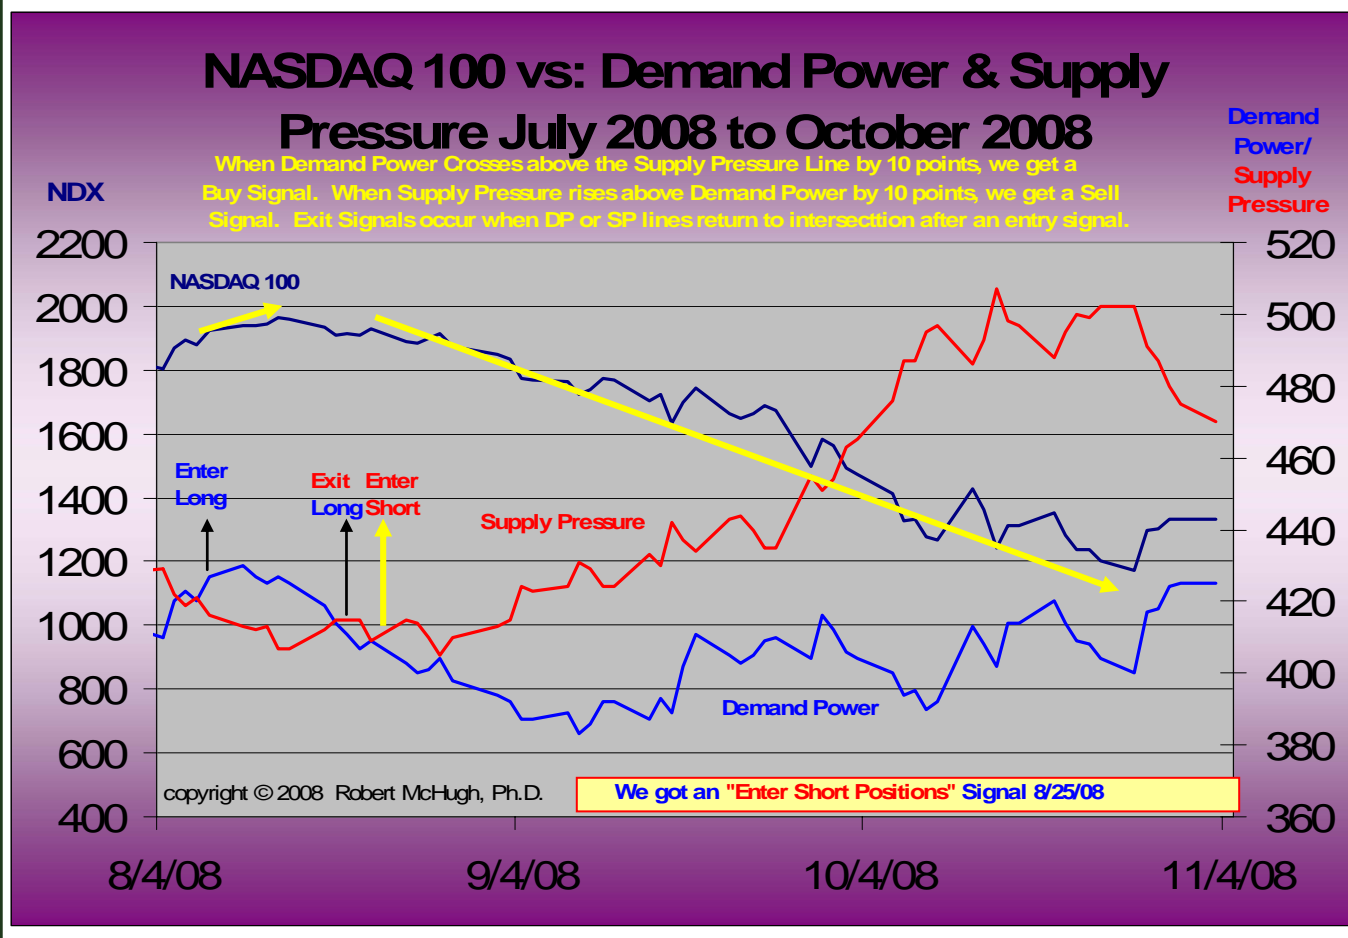

Have you noticed that the NDX crashed 40.0 percent since our NDX 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator generated a sell signal August 20th, 2008, less than two months ago.

Gold's Daily Full Stochastic generated a new buy signal Tuesday, October 28th. The HUI Amex Gold Bugs Index Daily and Weekly Full Stochastics just generated new buy signals.

The NASDAQ 100 rose 43.65 points Tuesday, closing at 1,378.40. Volume was higher at 89 percent of its 10 day average. Upside volume led at 88 percent. Advancing issues led at 82 percent, with upside points at 94 percent. NDX Demand Power rose 8 points to 433, with Supply Pressure down 9 points at 461, telling us the rally was strong and solid.

Our key trend-finder indicators remain on a "buy" signal Tuesday. The NDX 14 day Stochastic Fast rose to 79.00, above the Slow at 63.20, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 13th. The NDX Purchasing Power Indicator rose 9 points to negative -44.49, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The NDX 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator rose to positive + 2.4, remaining on a "sell" signal from August 20th, when it fell below the negative -5.0 threshold for a new "sell" signal. The Demand Power/Supply Pressure Indicator generated an enter short positions signal Monday August 25th, when the SP indicator rose more than 10 points above the DP indicator, and remains there Tuesday, November 4th.

The Russell 2000 rose 7.47 points Tuesday, closing at 545.97. Volume was up at 96 percent of its 10 day average, with upside volume leading at 63 percent, with advancing issues leading at 62 percent. The RUT Purchasing Power Indicator rose to positive + 20.16, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 28th. The RUT 10 day average Advance/Decline Line Indicator improved to negative - 9.10, remaining on a "sell" signal from August 25th, needing to rise above the positive +180.00 threshold for a new "buy" signal.

The HUI Amex Gold Bugs Index rose sharply, up 28.86 points Tuesday, closing at 223.90. Volume rose to 90 percent of its 10 day average. Upside volume was 100 percent, with advancing issues at 100 percent, and upside points at 100 percent. Our key trend-finder indicators remain on a "sideways" signal Tuesday, November 4th. The HUI 30 day Stochastic Fast rose to 20.00, above the Slow at 2.22, remaining on a "sell" signal from October 2nd. The Fast has to rise more than 20 points above the Slow to trigger a new "buy." Close. The HUI Purchasing Power Indicator rose to 188.99, remaining on a "buy" signal from October 29th. December Gold rose sharply to 762.3. Silver rose to 10.16, while Oil rose to 70.00. The Dollar fell 1.65 to 84.59. Bonds rose sharply, up 2 points to 115^12. The PPT has to buy the long end to keep Bonds headed in the right direction, to support the housing market, especially now that AMBAC and MBIA are no longer rated AAA, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac — who hold half of all mortgages - have collapsed, and credit markets have frozen, requiring lower interest rates, and Master Planner interest rate (bond) intervention. The VIX fell to 47.73, as volatility and fear ease, but killing call options from working in a rising market.

The Australia SPASX200 fell 6.40 points, or 0.15 percent Tuesday. Click on the Weekend Australia Report, which includes EW charts of the FTSE and DAX, for the latest analysis.

Bottom Line: The Fed has to continue hyperinflating to bail out this sick economy, feeding a major trend up in precious metals. Households, not just Wall Street, must be bailed out. If this doesn't happen we are headed for an economic depression.
